THE GOVERNMENT

The County is governedby a seven-member Commission whose members serve concurrent four-year terms. Twoof the Commissioners run at large, while the other five represent geographic districts. It follows the Commission-Manager form of government with anappointed manager overseeing its operations. Its general fund for FY2009 is $635million and total budget is approximately $1 billion. The County hasapproximately 6,500 employees.

THE PERSONNELDEPARTMENT

The PersonnelDepartment is responsible for carrying out the human resources functionsthroughout Fulton County Government. With only very minor exceptions, theDepartment has responsibility for every one of the County's 6,500 employees. Theday-to-day operations are overseen by the Department Director who reports to theCountyManager. He/she also worksclosely with and is staff to the County's Personnel Board.

The PersonnelDepartment is composed of 43 individuals and has a budget of $3,890,679. It is responsible for Personnel Administration generally and, in particular, Payrolland Leave (fourteen positions), Employee Relations (six positions), Classification and Compensation (four positions), and Recruiting (elevenpositions). Six other positions are allocated to Administration QualityControl. The Personnel Board is composed and of seven members. EachCountyCommissionernominates a member of theBoard and the entire Commission must approve the appointment. The Board wasestablished by the Civil Service Act of 1982 and has as its responsibilities:(1) Representing the public interest in the improvement of personneladministration within the County government; (2) Advising the County Manager andCommission on personnel matters, (3) Devise, publish and amend or rescinddetailed personnel regulations and policies; (4) Oversee and provide policydirection of a county-wide merit system; (5) Conduct hearings and investigations, render decisions on cases brought before it (essentially, allterminations and suspensions of County employees) and (6) Determine positionclassifications, salary ranges, compensation plans and salary schedules.

THE CHALLENGES

The challenges facing the next Personnel Director are several. Like local governments across the country and around the Metro Atlanta region, Fulton County Government is experiencing sharply decreased revenues; nevertheless, Fulton Countyended FY2008 with a structurallybalanced budget. The County Manageris taking proactive measures to reduce expenditures for FY2009 and beyond while engaging the workforce inefforts to increase organizational efficiency. The Personnel Director will be expected to advise County leadership on best practices to effectively manage the workforce through these challenges.

Additionally, itshould be recognized that the County's goal is to make the Personnel Departmenta model agency and one that others study as being an example of what they wantto achieve in their government. Within that context, the new director should beaware of a number of factors. First, the Personnel Department was managed for 19years by the recently retired director. The new director will need to gain thetrust and respect of the Board of Commissioners as well as the County's seniormanagers and the employees. Second, the change will provide the opportunity fora fresh perspective. While being respectful of the past, the individual willneed to evaluate current practices to ensure they are as efficient and effectiveas possible. Third, the selected individual will need to work with the PersonnelBoard,CountyManager's Office, anddepartmental staff to review the organization's vision and strategic plan. Finally, from the perspective of the Personnel Board, improved training ofmanagers will be critical. Often the cases the Board reviews could bestrengthened by better documentation and supervisory practices.

THE IDEAL CANDIDATE

While by law therequirements for the Personnel Director are straightforward (he/she shall becompetent, honest, and possess the appropriate education and experience), theCounty is looking for more. The ideal candidate will be innovative, energetic, strong and professional. He/she will be up-to-date on current human resourcespractices and will be someone who can bring the organization to the next level. The selected candidate will not just be a manager but also a leader who canenergize and inspire the Department. He/she will encourage participation and collaboration while also recognizing that the final decision rests with him/her. The selected candidate will know when a decision needs to be kicked upstairs totheCountyManager. The selectedindividual will be both positive and analytical and will ask, "Why are we oraren't we doing it this way?" as opposed to accepting things as they are. He/shewill have excellent people skills and work well with other internal departments and the Personnel Board. The individual will have top-notch communicationsskills and be able to relate equally well to aCountyCommissionerand frontline staff members.Finally, the selected candidate will understand organizational politics and howto navigate difficult situations.

County managementbelieves that its department directors should be subject matter experts and, assuch, the selected candidate will have an exceptional knowledge of humanresources management, principles and practices as well as the technology thatsupports them. He/she will also have a demonstrated track record of achievementin human resources. The position requires a Bachelor's degree in humanresources, business or public administration, or related field (Master'spreferred) AND seven (7) years of progressively more responsible managementexperience in human resources, personnel management or a related area, includingthree (3) years supervisory experience or an equivalent combination of educationand experience sufficient to successfully perform the essential duties of theposition.

COMPENSATION

The salary range for the position is $97,205 to $157,475. The County offers an attractive benefitspackage. By law, the Personnel Director has a four-year term with the County.
