

Williamsburg Yorktown Daily

January 3, 2016

James City County Employees, Volunteers Recognized with Chairman's Awards

By Elizabeth Hornsby

Randy Hisle, Bryan Hill and the James City-Bruton Volunteer Fire Department were honored as the recipients of the 2015 Chairman's Awards at a recent James City County Board of Supervisors meeting.

The Chairman's Awards are an annual recognition of county employees and volunteers for outstanding contributions and service to James City County and the community...

Also honored with Hisle was County Administrator Bryan Hill, who was recognized for his "commitment to ensuring that James City County is open, transparent and accessible," according to the news release.

Hill identified five strategic initiatives – water, stormwater, schools, economic development and county appearance – that are crucial to the well-being of the county, all of which were addressed in this year's budget.

Thanks to the focus on these initiatives and Hill's leadership, James City County has earned multiple AAA bond ratings making it "one of just 44 elite counties in the nation" to do so, according to the release.

Chairman Michael Hipple recognized James City County Administrator Bryan Hill for his work on the fiscal 2016 budget.